

Name Westin

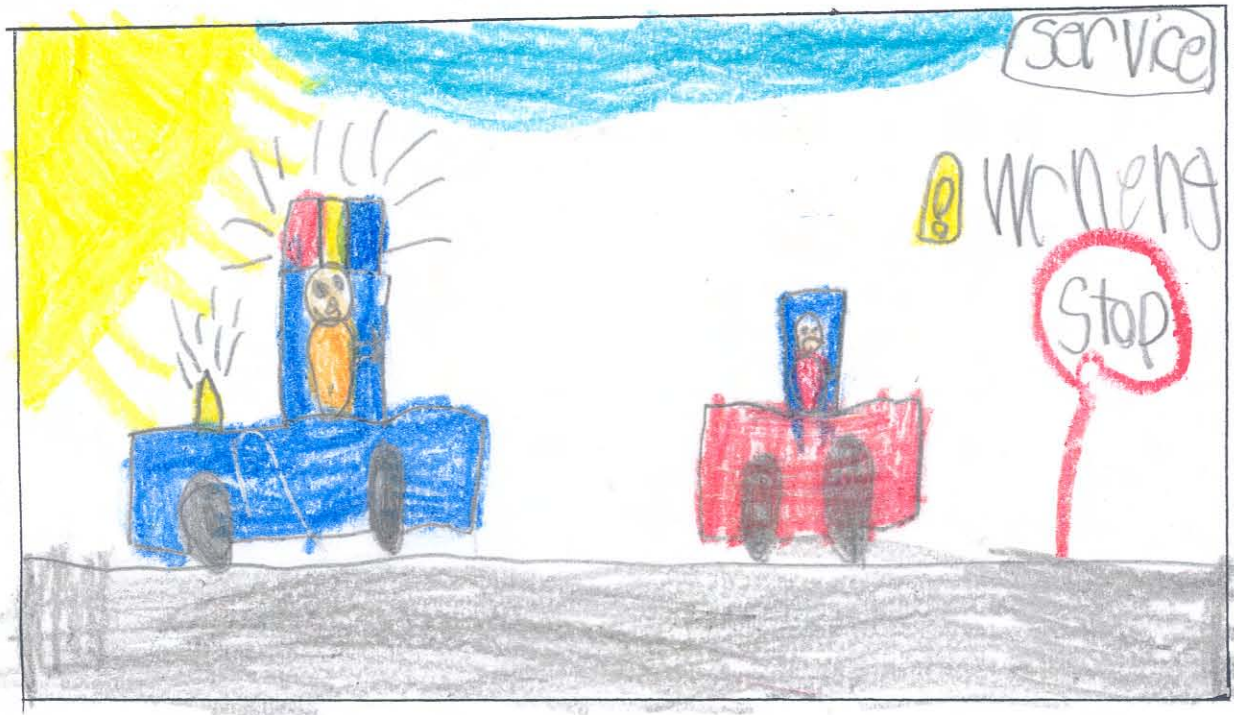

? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ?

WHAT WILL YOU BE?

What job would you like to do when you grow up? Write it in the circle.
On the lines, list the things you would do

Draw a picture of yourself performing your job when you are grown up.
Are you a producer of a good or a service? service?

Balloons
↓

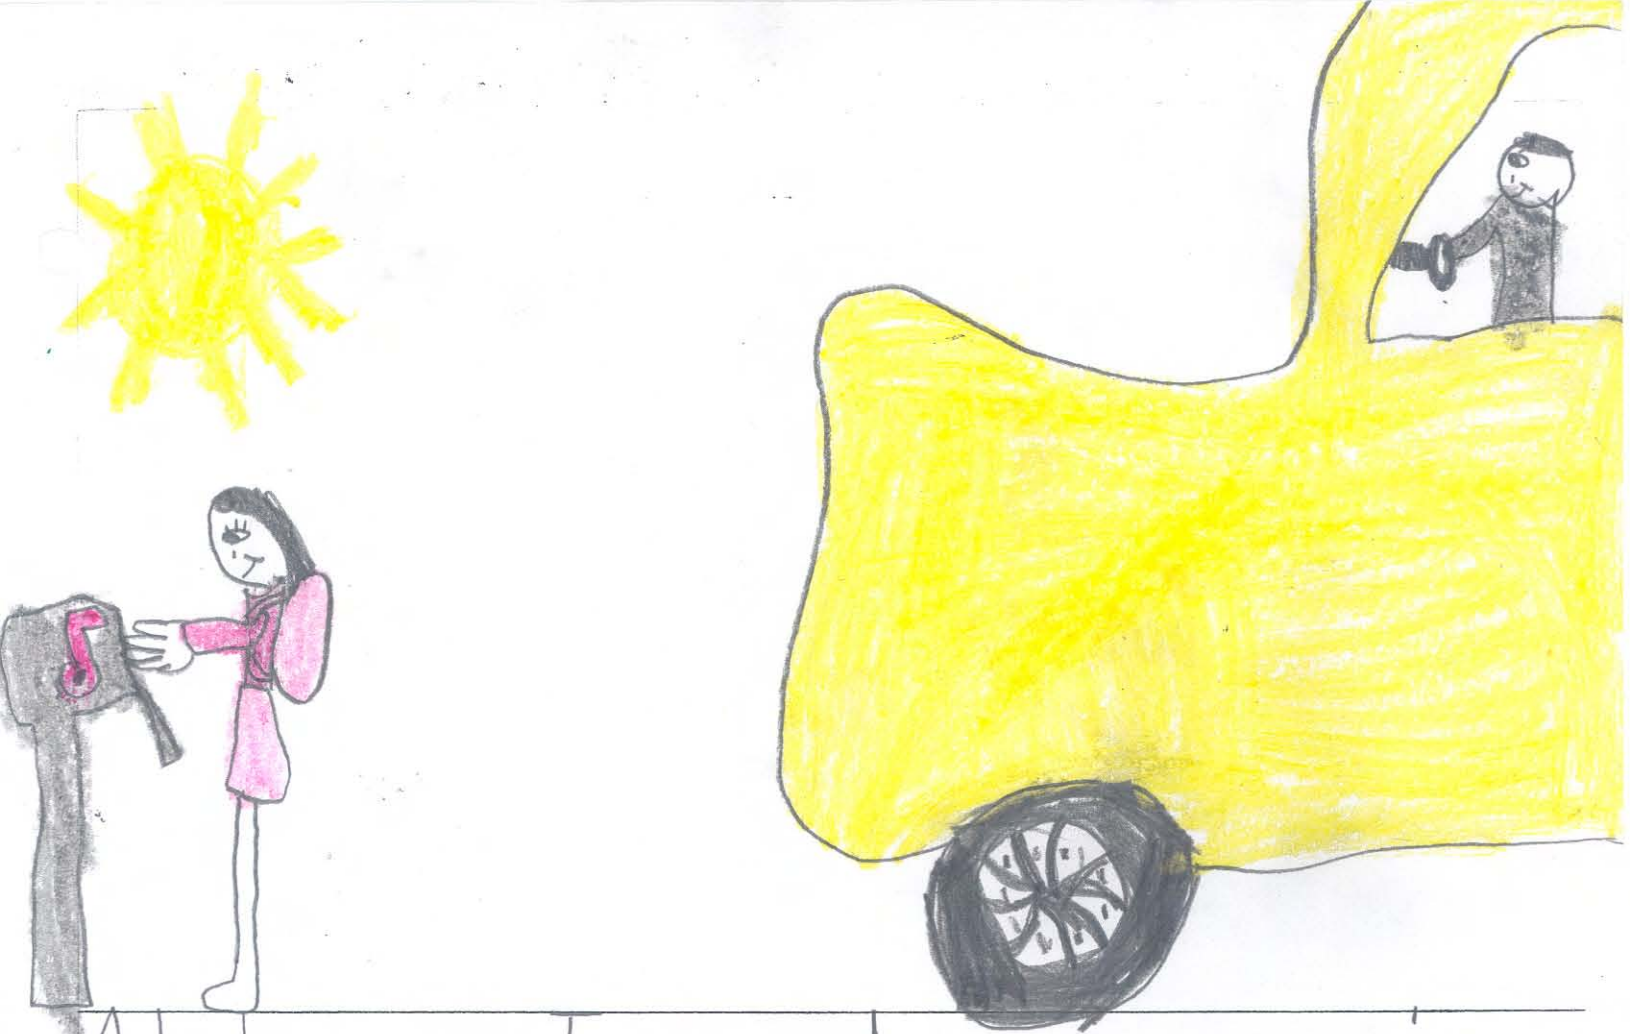

Cupcakes

Tootsie

On our schools 5th birthday my class produced a service. We made cupcakes and put tootsie pops in them. My class decorated the cafeteria
and we wore chef hats.
And served the kids. Maggie

At home I produce a service.
I feed my dog Josie. And after school I get the mail and bring it in. And I <sup>even</sup> set and unset the table. And do the dish's. Amanda <sub>dishes</sub>

PRODUCERS AT WORK - THEY WERE EVERYWHERE WE LOOKED!

Name Corbin Cooper 4

Throughout the year we have learned about many producers of goods and services. Some were in our school and others were from the community. Even you and your classmates were producers of goods and services.

DIRECTIONS: Thank about "School Helpers At Work" and your jobs as producers of goods or services during the school year. Your assignment is to illustrate and describe a job you did. Include details about it. You may write on the back of your paper if you need more space.

I am seling
tattos. that is me. ↘

COURTESY PHOTO

Melody Key's first-grade class at Williams Elementary in Farmington recently treated the cafeteria ladies and custodian to a brunch in appreciation of their work. The brunch was part of the students' economic project called "School Helpers at Work." The cafeteria women have been helpful in teaching Key's students about their jobs as producers and services, as well as helping them make decorated cupcakes for the school's fifth birthday party in February. The brunch menu included quiche, chilled strawberry soup and raspberry tea. Those treated were Patsy Grant, Barbara Beeks, Sherry Cook, Debbie Waller, Bonnie Alison, Teresa Darling, Kita Curry and Ruby Smith.

Because of our project, our school has a colorful safety floor in the gym!